NOTHING BUT A MAN

DIRECTOR Michael Roemer

CAST Ivan Dixon, Abbey Lincoln, Gloria Foster, Julius Harris, Yaphet Kotto

Ivan Dixon, the charming, mustachioed actor best known for his role as communications specialist Kinchloe on Hogan's Heroes, was also a prolific television director and a committed Civil Rights activist. This little-known '60s gem by director Michael Roemer and screenwriter Robert A. Young features what is perhaps Dixon's finest performance as Duff Anderson, a railroad worker in Alabama struggling between his love for a local schoolteacher, portrayed by singer Abbey Lincoln, and the stark reality of life in the American South of the 1960s. In a role defined by his character's struggle for dignity and respect, Dixon exudes a wary gentleness that is heartbreaking but entirely in keeping with his subtle, winning talent.
